Recapture Of Central Tunisian Rail Junction Announced By High Command

AXIS THRUSTS HAVE LOST MOMENTUM

(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, In North Africa, March 2.—Recapture of the central Tunisian rail junction of Sbeitla and a new three-mile advance to the east of the town was announced by the Allied North African high command today.

Occupy Other Towns

Advancing American troops also recaptured the town of Kasserine and Periana, where there is an important advance air base. The Germans were reported to have plowed up the field before abandoning it, but American engineers are expected to restore it to use without loss of time.

Loss of Sbeitla to Axis forces was the first severe setback suffered by American and British troops on the Tunisian front when Field Marshal Erwin Rommel launched his offensive just 16 days ago.

An official communique from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters said: "Sbeitla is in our hands."

The announcement added that enemy offensive thrusts in the northern part of the country have been held in all sectors, and the Germans are suffering severely in loss of men and material.

Await Weather Break To Attack Jap Convoy Seen Near New Guinea

By LEE VAN ATTA
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, March 2.—Allied bombardment squadrons awaited only a break in the weather today to give battle to a large Japanese convoy of 14 warships and merchantmen steaming in the direction of New Guinea.

Discovery of the Jap convoy, one of the greatest caught on the move in the New Guinea area, followed by only a few hours a declaration by Gen. Douglas MacArthur that the Japs were concentrating ships, troops and air forces throughout the island Archipelago, north of Australia.

West Of New Britain

Latest reports gave the position of the convoy as "somewhere west of New Britain," Jap-held Australian island just east of New Guinea. It was first sighted by allied reconnaissance planes off Talasea, on the north coast of New Britain.

Not since a big convoy of nine Jap merchantmen was plastered by allied bombs off Lae, New Guinea, has a flotilla of enemy ships of that size been reported in New Guinea waters.

The swift-moving convoy was discovered yesterday afternoon "moving under cover of an advancing weather front towards the coast of New Guinea," Gen. MacArthur said in a communique today.

"Our air force is preparing to attack if the weather permits," he added.

Russian Forces Drive Westward Through Ukraine

Move Forward Despite Stiff Resistance Given By Nazi Troops

BIG GAINS MADE IN NORTHERN AREA

By NATALIA RENE
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

MOSCOW, March 2.—The Soviet drive westward through the Ukraine moved forward today despite stubborn Nazi resistance while in the far north the Red army pursued remnants of the German 16th army battered by a new offensive in the Lake Ilmen district.

The Soviet high command announced at noon that several localities were recaptured west of the Ukraine in industrial city of Kharkov. The communique said 300 Nazis were killed in battles on this sector.

Stubborn Fighting

West of Kursk there was stubborn fighting as the Russians maintained their offensive. In one engagement 10 German tanks were destroyed and numerous prisoners taken.

An air battle was reported fought in the Kuban area of the West Caucasus during which 11 Nazi planes were shot down without a loss to the Soviet air force.

President Still Recovering From Slight Disorder

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, March 2.—Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox estimated today that the Germans have from 300 to 400 submarines available to attack the Allied supply lines in the Atlantic this spring and summer.

"There has been no increase in the number of submarines in the Atlantic lanes recently but that doesn't mean they can't increase," Knox told his press conference.

"The Germans have at least 300 to 400 submarines available. That's an estimate, of course."

Bombing Results

The secretary explained that only an undetermined fraction of this number could be on active patrol to harass shipping at one time, and that the remainder would have to be enroute to and from bases for refueling, supplies and repairs.

Knox was asked if the recent bombing of Nazi U-boat bases along the coast of France was accomplishing the desired objective.

"They are doing some good, but we don't know how much," he replied. "Some of the stalks (U-boat docks) are heavily protected."

The secretary said that the "blockbuster" type of bombs used by the British undoubtedly cause heavy damage when dumped upon such small communities as Lorient and St. Nazaire. He added that they serve a purpose even if it is only to "disrupt the life of the community."

Says Jap Fleet To Be Destroyed

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, March 2.—Secretary of Navy Frank Knox today declared that the army and navy might ignore the need of agriculture and industry in fixing the size of the armed forces as he predicted that the Japanese fleet will be utterly destroyed before the war is over.

Knox made his statement before the senate foreign affairs committee. He testified on the bill to extend lend-lease aid to the United Nations for another year.

The secretary, in speaking of the need to get a string of bases throughout the south Pacific to keep Japan disarmed after the war declared.

"We will destroy the Jap fleet before the war is over. We will utterly destroy it."

Preparing Way For European Invasion Move

(International News Service)
LONDON, March 2.—Captain Harold H. Balfour, undersecretary of state for air, declared today that the Allies' "nonstop bombing offensive against Germany is preparing the way for an Allied invasion of Europe."

His statement was given at the opening of the "wings of victory" exhibition in London.

"Taking a long view of the war," said Captain Balfour, "these raids are the opening bars which will rise to a crescendo of a march on Europe."

War Over For These Axis Prisoners In Tunisia

When the Allied forces raided and entered the Axis stronghold of De Sene, Tunisia, they captured hundreds of prisoners. A group of them are shown in the top photo. The captured smiling Nazi soldiers (bottom) are happy at the thought of being sent to an internment camp for the duration of the war.

County Men Go To Camp Today

Youths From Western Half Of County Depart For Reception Center This Morning

LARGE CROWD SAYS FAREWELL

Men from the western half of Lawrence county, called up for service by Local Board Two of the County, were bid farewell by a large crowd of relatives and friends at the Pennsylvania railroad station this morning as they departed for New Cumberland to begin their duties for Uncle Sam.

Capt. Carl Andreasen, of the Salvation Army, president of the Lawrence County Service Men's Aid Association, presided and pronounced the invocation, while Arnold Barnes, representing the Veterans of Foreign Wars, addressed the men briefly.

The group today was the last to leave from the February call, all of which have been larger than any previous calls for manpower for the army.

Fatal Shooting Of Playmate Is Probed

Holidaysburg 13-Year-Old Shoots Playmate With Shotgun

(International News Service)
ALTOONA, Pa., March 2.—Blair County authorities today were investigating the fatal shooting late yesterday of 13-year-old Shirley K. McNally, of Holidaysburg, by a playmate, John J. Steiner, 13.

The shooting occurred at the Steiner home after a shotgun in the boy's hand failed to work while he attempted to shoot a can in his back yard, state motor police said.

The police said the boy, sensing a joke, playfully said to the girl: "I'm going to shoot you."

He pulled the trigger and the gun fired, pellets entering the girl's left shoulder, police added.

Although no formal charges were lodged, the youth was held in a detention home in Altoona, pending a complete investigation.

U. S. Bomber And British Cruiser Sink Axis Ship

(International News Service)
LONDON, March 2.—An Axis tanker has been sunk in the Atlantic through cooperative efforts of a United States liberator bomber and a British cruiser, a joint U. S. A. F. and admiralty communique revealed today.

The tanker, fully laden, was sighted Friday by the American liberator 500 miles west of southwest of Cape Finisterre, on the northeast coast of Spain.

The liberator made contact with H. M. S. Sussex, a 9,850-ton cruiser, and continued to shadow the enemy vessel for several hours until the tanker was in sight to intercept the tanker. The Sussex opened fire and sank the enemy craft.

Berlin Given Worst Blasting Of War As Yet

Huge Air Attack Upon Nazi Capital Made By R. A. F.

PROBABLY 500 PLANES IN RAID

By CHARLES A. SMITH
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, March 2.—Berlin was set ablaze last night by the heaviest Royal Air Force bombardment ever made against the German capital.

"Berlin got it heavier last night than it has ever had it so far," declared Captain Harold H. Balfour, undersecretary for air.

The official air ministry communique said that the half-hour highly concentrated attack gave Berlin "its worst and heaviest raid of the war."

Nineteen Planes Lost

The force of the attack with heavyweight bombs could be judged to some extent by the announcement that 19 planes were lost indicating a probable force of between 400 and 500 took part.

The fires set by the first British airmen to arrive over Berlin could be seen for 20 minutes before crews at the end of the attacking squadrons reached the target area.

See Flames 150 Miles Away

On the return journey the pilots reported, flames rising from the battered Nazi capital could be seen from points as far distant as Bremen and Hanover.

Hanover is over 150 miles from Berlin while Bremen is nearly 200 miles distant.

Clouds of smoke covered large areas of the capital, they said.

The entire British bombing force was composed of four-engine bombers which carried both 8,000-pound and 4,000-pound bombs among their great load of high explosives.

Pathfinder bombers, the first over Berlin, dropped flares which brilliantly lighted the targets.

The first wave of four-engine attackers then roared by with a mixed load of high explosive and incendiary bombs.

TRUCK STRUCK BY R. R. TRAIN

Simon Hopkins, a truck driver of Youngstown, escaped death or serious injury miraculously this morning at 11:10 when his truck was hit by a westbound Pennsylvania Railroad freight train on the Pulaski crossing. The front end of the truck was damaged slightly, and the load of cement blocks was hauled and scattered, but Hopkins escaped without a scratch.

The truck is owned by Ralph Lunstrom, of 213 East Delon avenue, Youngstown, and was loaded with 720 cement blocks destined for Pulaski. No damage was done to the freight train and only minor damage to the truck.

The icebox, oh the icebox in those dear pre-ration days, a spot to get a midnight snack or just to stand and gaze. Those kipped snacks, that bity cheese, those cans of fruit and stuff, brush back those tears and hold yourself, these days are getting rough. You want a sardine, they are frozen, or frozen in the cold, and so are other tasty bites, much more than I have heard. The icebox yawns as I look in, and shouts, there's nothing more, except some macaroni bits, the weather's twenty-four.

By using ration stamps with the highest point-value for what you are buying you will save yourself living on a steady diet of prunes, for instance, toward the end of the month. Save the low point-value ones as long as you can. Your grocery cannot make change in ration stamps.

Indications are that some motorists who use cars (some with displaying A B or C stickers) to speed to work may soon find themselves gazing into the face of Mayor Charles B. Mayne. Gas rationing has not stopped speeding here. His fine rate is $1 a mile.

Persons who desire lots on which to grow vegetables should lose no time visiting the city engineer's department. Rationing will cause many who have not grown gardens for years to again become "city farmers." The city has lots and is willing to let them out for gardens.

Owen Penfield Fox, city forester, expects to get started on park work in later March or early April. At any rate he will be ready as soon as the frost leaves the ground. He reports that song-sparrows, robins and cardinals are here.

Tax Reduction In State Urged

Governor Martin's Budget
Recommends Cut Of $41-
600,000 In Taxes

ALSO PROVIDES FOR
SLASH IN COSTS

By JOHN PAGET
(N. S. Staff Correspondent)
HARRISBURG, March 2.—The General Assembly today scanned a $472,000,000 war economy budget submitted by Gov. Edward Martin in which he recommended a reduction of $41,600,000 in taxes and $17,800,000 in government costs.

He told a joint session of the house and senate last night that the economies were possible during the 1943-45 biennium starting June 1 despite an estimated drop of $49,000,000 in state revenues and an $8,387,534 deficiency for the current period.

Specifically the governor provided for a general fund of $337,022,155.50 for normal governmental expenditures and revolving funds amounting to $135,435,536.55 for a total budget during the next biennium of $472,457,692.05. His estimates were $147,000,000 below the amount which will have been expended when the present biennium ends.

Tax Reductions
The tax reductions could be accomplished, the governor said, by repealing the four-mill tax on personal property, bank stock and corporate loans, the three-mill levy on bank shares and the mercantile tax.

"In the main," Governor Martin stated, "the appropriations I have recommended are the amounts necessary to operate the departments upon an economical basis. Increases in varying amounts over appropriations for the present biennium are recommended in some instances."

"These are made necessary by the rise in wage costs forced upon the state by the competition of the federal government and private employment in the labor market. The appropriations at the recommended amounts are only sufficient to support a minimum force of employees to conduct necessary functions of government."

The governor added that it would be his policy to avoid all possible competition for labor which should be employed directly in the war effort.

NAVAL LEADERS SAY JAPAN WILL PROBABLY NOT TRY TO INVADE

stroker force. These vessels are vital factors in any amphibious move to protect large warships as well as transports.

The fact that the Japanese recently have begun to use corvettes to escort troop transports and cargo vessels in the south Pacific indicates that the enemy's destroyer fleet has been badly crippled and that the reserve units are being held back to protect battleships and carriers.

Heavy Jap Losses
At the outbreak of war Japan was reported to have a total of 123 destroyers, although subsequent events showed 30 to 35 more than that. However, the navy alone has reported the sinking of at least 51 of these speedy warships and the probable sinking of 18 others.

In addition, 57 destroyers were listed by the navy as damaged, but undoubtedly many of these have been repaired and returned to service. These figures do not include destroyers reported sunk or damaged by Gen. Douglas MacArthur's forces from Australia.

The Solomon campaign alone has resulted in the destruction of at least 24 Jap destroyers. These vessels are vital in helping to keep Japan's long supply lines open and to protect the remainder of the enemy's battleship and carrier fleet.

Boarding Destroyers
Appearance of Jap corvettes—useful but lightly armed and armored—in the Solomons indicates that the Japs are beginning to count their remaining destroyers carefully and have decided not to risk these useful warships within range of American planes.

On Feb. 27, two Jap corvettes, escorting a transport were attacked by U. S. dive bombers 25 miles northwest of Guadalcanal, and one corvette and the transport were set afire.

Japan still has powerful fleet units based at Truk in the mid-Pacific and there is a possibility that this force still may strike a heavy blow at American and United Nations outposts in the Pacific.

However, navy men have contended that mounting Japanese warships and merchant vessel losses preclude such a move as necessary in an attempt to take part of the Australian continent.

These sources have maintained that hereafter Japan would attempt to strengthen her aerial defenses in the south and southwest Pacific areas to form a barrier in case American forces moved westward to oust the enemy from the East Indies.

Deaths of the Day

Martha Jane Aiken.

Another pioneer Lawrence County citizen was taken Monday afternoon, March 1, when Miss Martha Jane Aiken of 317 East street died in her home at 1 o'clock. Death came suddenly, following an attack on Sunday. Miss Aiken was a veteran of the educational system, having been a teacher for over fifty years prior to her retirement in 1936.

She was a Godly woman, who practiced her Christian faith in her daily life. She had many friends for she was a friend to many. Hers was a quiet life but a rich one.

Miss Aiken was born in Portersville, Butler County, the daughter of Alexander H. and Jane Kennedy Aiken. In 1874, with her parents she came to Mount Jackson in this county where she spent her early childhood. In 1891 she came to New Castle. She was a graduate of the Edinboro State Normal school and in 1894 took up the profession of a school teacher. For a short time she taught in the schools of Parkers' Landing and Sewickley and then came to New Castle.

For many years Miss Aiken was a prominent teacher in the New Castle schools and among her former students are listed many successful men and women of this and other cities. In 1936 she retired after more than half a century service in the cause of education.

She was the sister of the late Attorney Robert K. Aiken. The sisters preceded her in death. Mary Cassandra and Annie. She is survived by a brother, Albert A. War or no war, there's one program that is gaining momentum for the annual epidemic—house cleaning. It may be a little early, but some householders are already in the pre-campaign stages.

Pa Newco notes that numerous programs for affairs scheduled for Thursday night are being postponed, due to the scheduled blackout air raid test which has been announced for that night.

Holders of ration books No. 2 are rather slow in getting started on their use, according to reports from some merchants in the city and district. While they were usable yesterday, business in goods requiring coupons was not so brisk, Pa Newco hears.

Easter Sunday comes late this year, a glance at the calendar reveals. It falls on April 25, the last Sunday of the month.

Among the books being brought in to the public library for this week's victory book campaign are a surprising number of the small "discovery" books. Some of the contributors of these said they had bought them purposely to give because they know the men in service—to whom the books are sent—like them.

Mrs. Bud Russler of 426 Hillcrest avenue states that she has made it very closely when she is willing to pass along to coffee lovers. She states that by putting the coffee into the water like mother used to do, one saves one-third the amount of coffee. In other words, she says she uses two tablespoons full, while in a percolator she has to use three, but one less it starts to boil. Some may not think this is helpful, but it was good enough for our parents and their children, and should be still good enough for us, she states.

Maybe you don't recall it, but a year ago today, we had the biggest snow of the entire winter, a total of six and a half inches falling. However, the temperature went above the freezing mark for several days in succession and it gradually melted off. For all the early spring we had last year, March was also marked by a five-inch fall of snow on the 23rd.

Lawrence Cozza's birth rate still continues to maintain a healthy pace. In February of 1942 there were 58 babies born in the Jameson Memorial hospital, against 45 in February of 1941. In February this year there were 77, an increase of 19 over last year and 32 over February of 1941.

A beehive is a quiet place compared to the United States Employment bureau office these days. If rationing of clothing and material comes it will be because of people like the woman who bought 40 yards of dress material at a lick one other day—or maybe she plans to run up a couple of little summer frocks.

ther conditions big United States reconnaissance planes kept in constant contact with the convoy throughout last night. This morning the powerful convoy was believed to have cleared to the west of New Britain with its definite objective still undetermined.

The unfavorable weather so far had permitted the enemy ships to move along unmolested by allied airmen. The situation was typical of instances where the Japs previously have elected to reinforce their garrisons under protection of a weather front.

Hope that flying fortresses and liberator bombers may soon be able to get into the air for assaults on the Jap ships was seen in the fact that air operations over New Guinea itself were little hindered by weather. With the advance of the convoys toward New Guinea the ships may move into a clearing where they will provide good targets.

One heavy allied plane was able to bomb the Jap-held airfield at Alexishaven while in the Mubo area below Salamaua attack planes bombed and strafed trails held by Jap ground forces.

There will be plenty of work the year after the war. It will take that long to roll up all the barbed wire.

SBETLA RETAKEN FROM AXIS FORCES BY ALLIED TROOPS

miles northeast of Kasserine occupied Sbeitla on the first of March and penetrated three miles east of the town.

Northern Tunisia, the recent widespread enemy attacks have lost their momentum. Details of enemy casualties during the past three days show that he has paid a heavy price in men and material and has been held in all sectors.

Enemy Tanks Destroyed

"A considerable number of enemy tanks have been destroyed."

Attacks on enemy vehicles by Hurricane bombers and Spitfires were continued in northern sectors yesterday and medium bombers again attacked targets at Mateur. In the southern sector our fighters attacked objectives in the Mareth area.

On the night of Feb. 28, one of our bombers attacked the docks at Bizerte. Yesterday, flying fortresses made two attacks on objectives at Palermo in Sicily. Many bombs were seen to burst in the target area and several ships were hit.

Railroad bridges at La Hensha between Sousse and Sfax were bombed from low level.

Twenty-five enemy aircraft were destroyed during yesterday and two during the night of Feb. 28-Mar. 1. From all these operations four of ours are missing.

Two Assaults Made

In northern Tunisia, Axis attacks lost their momentum along the 70-mile front stretching from Cap Serrat to south of Bou Arada, but the enemy made two assaults down the Mateur-Baja road, one by infantry and the other by tanks and infantry. Both attacks were repulsed with heavy losses to the enemy.

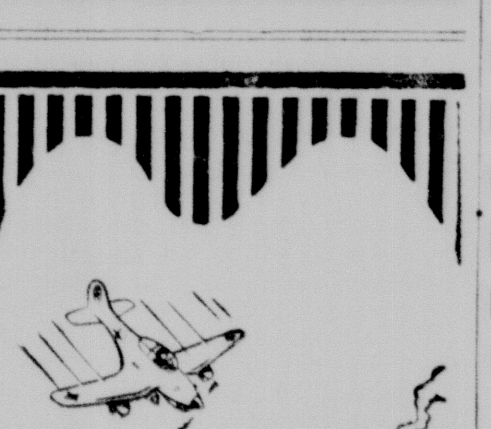

The attacks took place in an area seven miles north of Beja. Six German tanks were knocked out, raising to 24 the total number of enemy tanks destroyed in the northern Tunisian fighting. Eighteen German tanks were destroyed.

Doesn't it seem more sensible?

State Amendment Would Halt Raids On License Fund

Also Seek Free Issuance Of Vital Certificates To Service Men

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, March 2.—The house today received a senate-approved amendment to the constitution designed to halt "raids" on the motor license fund for money to be used other than on highways.

To become effective, however, the amendment must be approved by two legislatures and the voters and could not become operative until 1945 at the earliest.

The house sent to the senate for consideration a bill authorizing free issuance of birth, death and marriage certificates to members of the armed services and their dependents.

Both houses, which met briefly last night for the routine business following Gov. Edward Martin's budget address, were to reconvene this afternoon, possibly to receive some proposals to carry out the governor's recommendations. The house was scheduled to meet at 1:30 p. m. and the senate at 4 p. m.

OUTSTANDING PROGRAM FOR THE WOMAN'S CLUB

One of the most interesting programs of the year for members of the Woman's club occurred Monday afternoon when in addition to election of officers, an exceptional program of entertainment was presented.

Election of officers resulted in Mrs. A. B. Fankhauser being elected president for the coming year. Other officers named were: First vice president, Mrs. John E. Elliott; second vice president, Mrs. J. Glenn Berry; recording secretary, Mrs. Charles E. Allen; corresponding secretary, Mrs. E. L. Thompson; historian, Mrs. H. C. Dinsmore; parliamentarian, Mrs. Frank Woods.

Mrs. John E. Elliott, vice president, introduced Miss Margaret Potts, of the American Red Cross, who discussed the Red Cross blood bank. She stated that the government has asked for 5,300,000 pints of blood annually, which means 70,000 pints weekly. There are 31 centers in the United States, the nearest to New Castle being Pittsburgh and Cleveland. Pittsburgh has one mobile unit, which they have promised to send here, possibly within the next month.

John Carlin, one of the city's outstanding young pianists, played two waltzes by Mozart, the C-Sharp Minor and E-Minor, both of which were rendered in exceptional style.

Mrs. William J. Caldwell, member of the program committee, then introduced the speaker of the afternoon, Sam Campbell, of Three Lakes, Wis. His subject was "The Human Side of Nature." He and his wife live in a 6,000-acre saved land, where they spend seven months of the year taking pictures and living close to nature. Their presentations of nature were the most beautiful imaginable and held the audience spellbound.

The club voted a contribution of $100 to the Red Cross War fund. It was announced that at the next regular meeting of the club, April 5, a special collection will be taken by the Ways and Means committee, of which Mrs. F. M. Alexander is chairman, which will be used for welfare work by the club.

ANNUAL LEGISLATURES

SENATOR WOODWARD'S proposed constitutional amendment calling for annual sessions of the legislature deserves more than passing thought.

From the beginning of its history as a state, Pennsylvania had annual sessions until biennial sessions were established by the Constitution of 1873.

Whether the reasons were good or bad at that time, it must be conceded that there are some new considerations to be weighed now.

The chief of these is that in these fast-moving days many important situations refuse to stay put for as long as two years. It is especially difficult to budget for two years in advance.

As he reflects on the number of extraordinary sessions that have lately been sandwiched between regular sessions, Senator Woodward probably feels that his proposal would not do much more than legalize what is now the actual practice.—Philadelphia Evening Bulletin.

WAACS FROM FARMS

Army officers, training WAACS, pay tribute to women and girls from the farms. Quoting an official of the WAACS, Mrs. Laura I. Winter, home demonstration agent for Kansas State college, says: "Farm women joining the WAACS have an advantage. They are prepared by experience for any outdoor work they may have to do, and are used to applying themselves to solving problems in a direct way."

Mrs. Winter adds on her own behalf: "The last statement that 'WAACS from the farms are used to applying themselves to solving problems in a direct way,' is an outstanding compliment and it states the truth."

In this emergency that faces farm families, maximum production with much less help in man or woman power or machinery, is resulting in women on the farms applying themselves to solving the problem in a direct way. So, Mrs. Winter concludes, whether the uniform is a house dress, slacks or overalls, it is an emblem of service on the home front as truly as the more glamorous ones worn by the WAACS or WAVES.

Last year England mobilized women for farm work, giving the organization a title. With hired help for the farms becoming daily more scarce and a growing demand for more and more farm products, the United States may organize a woman's agriculture army. The discouraging part of all suggestions for relieving the farm labor shortage to date is that agriculture is a pursuit that requires training and experience.

MIXED TIME PUZZLE

Americans, who always want to know what time it is, seem to be getting more and more mixed up about it. There is Eastern time and Central time and Mountain time and Pacific time, and daylight-saving time and war time and other times all mixed up together, with state boundaries and railroads and airplanes and radio increasing the confusion. Father Time himself must be puzzled.

It was clear enough in the old days when we simply divided the country into north-and-south slices somewhat like sections of an orange. But it is a changed world now, far more complex and sensitive to any monkeying with the electric clock.

"Sun time" was once the most satisfactory of all. Probably it is yet to farmers. But otherwise nothing now is so simple as that. The sun as a chronometer seems to have served his purpose for most people. Even the farmers, when they get into town or into the next state, or turn on the radio, are likely to get into trouble. And good old Greenwich itself, the famous English timekeeper for the world, doesn't seem to be really on the job any more as far as ordinary people are concerned.

Most European countries seem to have a simpler system. French and Italian time, for instance, have long operated in 24-hour units instead of two units of 12 hours each. It would seem very queer for Americans to have supper at 19 o'clock instead of seven, but people might get used to it.

FLOWER FORTUNE

Death of the New York florist, Max Schling, recalls the extraordinary era covered by the first thirty years of the present century. It was a period of unprecedented opportunities for the individual in America.

Schling arrived in New York from Austria in 1899. The first day he set up shop he made $1.64. He kept the coins comprising the sum until the day of his death. His flower arrangements had an appeal that was unique. One day he sent a customer a center piece. It was delivered, by mistake, next door. The lady who received it through error asked to keep it. Thereafter, it has been said, Schling delivered more than one handsome piece to the wrong address and sold it on sight.

The first year he did a $10,000 business. In 1929 it reached $1,000,000. He served society and the theater with flowers. The boxes that went to leading ladies of major shows on opening nights brought him $400 to $600 each. He once built a canopy of foliage covered with red roses over tables seating 1,400 diners. An entire hotel floor was turned into a series of woodland scenes with growing birch trees for Barbara Hutton's debut at a cost of $18,000.

For Schling and legions of others who built fortunes on small foundations, the first three decades of the present century were truly remarkable.

To the Chinese this is Year 4640. For the Japs this is the next to the last.

The Parent Problem

LET LETTERS CHEER MEN IN WAR

ABOUT THE least one can do at home for the morale of the father, son, big brother or husband in the service, is to write regularly and often to him. Undoubtedly the letters will find him through the latest address of his. We have even if he should get a pile of letters all at once. Just imagine the joy he would have reading such a library, if they did arrive in a bunch.

In our normal correspondence we quit writing if, after we have written once or twice, we get no answer. But this custom doesn't hold with our loved ones in the armed forces. We must remember that a letter may be months on the way, and we won't wait for replies before writing again daily, or several times a week. We will never write in a scolding mood for not having had a letter, for there are so many reasons for delay.

Often And Cheerfully
Certainly in a family of three or more who can write, a letter should leave daily. Nor should just one member of the family (usually the mother) do all the writing. A good way is for the family to make out a schedule, each having his day to write. Even the tot of three or four might dictate what he wishes to say for an adult to take down and at the end of the letter make his mark. Such a letter would be very precious to the father or big brother in arms.

When letter writing is made a family enterprise it may be easy to enlist the cooperation of the boy or girl of 8, 10 or 12. In some instances, however, it will be necessary to require a child to write regularly, according to a schedule marked on the calendar. Not always proving a pleasure to the younger brother or sister, especially if a long while has passed since he has had a reply, let it be treated as a duty this child cannot escape. It will be good training in responsibility.

Community Plans
Teachers and Sunday school teachers should also encourage children to write to the father or big brother in the armed forces. Teachers may stimulate good work in creative composition at school through actual letter writing, helping the children learn that they really can write letters that are very interesting, especially when they record funny experiences and include jokes or riddles that have made them laugh.

In a certain city a newspaper man told me that in his classroom from which 35 boys have already gone into the service, the boys' parents get together and swap items about their sons, pooling the neighborhood information for a mimeographed sheet to each of them along with personal letters. Some service men's clubs also are devising ways by which every boy from their community receives letters regularly.

Solving Parent Problems
Q. What about the ten-year-old who does not want to write thank-you letters in respect to his gifts from distant friends?
A. Have no argument about it. Let him know when it shall be done and attach a penalty (other than tongue-lashing) that will pull. Proceed in like fashion to make him write regularly to his big brother or father in the armed forces.

Q. Should parents wear out-of-date and threadbare clothing in order to dress their high school daughter well?
A. No; this is harmful to the moral character and personality of the daughter. No better way to make a child selfish than to make undue sacrifices for her.

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERMAN
International News Service Staff Writer
Stalin's message to the Red army was as clear as a note from the finance company but everybody is trying to read code between the lines.

He said he was going to chase the Nazis out of Russia and defend his country's frontier. He has said it before. He says it every couple of months.

He did not mention United Nations, two, four or eight freedoms, post-war flagons of milk for the world or one big union for all. He just said he was going to go out and get himself some more Germans on the hoof.

If he wants to tell his army to go out and kill Nazis and not clutter up the command with any dream stuff that would seem to be his privilege and his business.

If we are going to try to read something into it that isn't there we can't blame it on Kremlin or Kremlin if we read it upside down and backward and come up with a positive negative.

For a people who ignored Stalin and the communies as long and as openly as we did we certainly are reaching out now for a kind word and, failing to find it in the text, we look under the postage stamp for a secret message.

Thought for the day: Opened by mistake.

Of course people are interested in what will happen after the war but they are more interested now in winning it in the right way.

CLOTHES FOR HONEYMOON
"How much baggage should I take with me on my honeymoon?"
E. H. N.

Take with you every essential to your comfort while traveling and everything that will add to your husband. But at the same time realize men are proverbially irritated by various and sundry pieces of small baggage.

With present transportation difficulties and shortages, make your luggage as compact and light as possible. As you doubtless know, troops are given priority in travel and civilians are supposed to make themselves as unobtrusive as possible.

You will find a wardrobe suitcase a great comfort. It will give you maximum room and take up a minimum of space.

If you travel on a sleeper, carry a small dressing case with all of your accoutrements necessary for overnight comfort. And don't bring all your clothes with you. Bring sufficient to be well dressed at all times, but three or four changes a day are silly.

So far as you can, supply your own complete equipment and do not intimate to your husband that you need anything new, especially while the honeymoon period lasts. If grandmother was opulent during her youth, she will tell you that brides in her time brought to their new homes enough apparel to last them two years, including a dozen of every article of lingerie, linen and towel. But this tradition has been largely exploded by the rapid and frequent changes in fashions, and the fact that many married women are self-supporting.

Roosevelt And Congress Are In Accord
Believe Madam Chiang Kai-Shek Is Tops
But Disagree On Prosecution Of The War

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, March 2.—Friction between the presidential administration and congress is too obvious not to attract attention. The White House and the legislators both are all-out for vigorous prosecution of the war, but they disagree considerably as to methods of doing it most effectively. And they certainly do disagree most emphatically relative to questions of domestic administration.

The New Deal is the issue. A formidable congressional contingent outspokenly is of the opinion that F. D. R. and his group aim at getting their politics adopted as of wartime necessity, but with a view to keeping them so in the subsequent days of peace.

That this element is in a majority is not a certainty—yet, but it is close to it, counting Republicans and anti-New Deal Democrats, allied.

Judgments split three ways. There are the original New Dealers, seriously weakened by the last election result, but still stand-patters for the New Deal. There are the conservatives—or reactionaries, as the New Dealers call them. And there is a bunch who contend that we have no option but to let executive nature take its course while the war lasts.

Dividing them into two crowds, their alignment is uncertain. They are 100 per cent on the war proposition, but that is all.

Otherwise it is a gamble, with the best betting being on congress side. Furthermore, each side wants to boss the war.

The president, admittedly, is commander-in-chief of operations, but he cannot run them without legislative—especially financial—regulations to authorize him.

That is, he cannot do it except dictatorially.

Some advisers think he should do it in this fashion. Others favor permitting him to leave congress to its own devices.

There, again, they differ in principle. The congressionalists say it is the legitimate way to do.

The others maintain that congress will so hopelessly gum the works.

The World and the Mud Puddles

HITLER AND ASTROLOGY

V stands for Victory, and right now it goes for victory in this war. It began a year or two ago in Europe, when the Allies and their friends started painting the letter V in every conceivable spot to annoy and aggravate Mussolini and Hitler and the soldiers of their armies.

When England was being subjected to the most disastrous and merciless bombing ever known to man, when it seemed that they should have been blown off the face of the earth, it was then that the haunting letter V mysteriously appeared on the thousands of I was reported that Hitler himself woke up one morning and discovered a huge yellow V across the seat of his best britches.

When Mussolini wired his sympathy and condolences, a letter V just as mysteriously showed up next morning painted in orange on his private office door, in Rome.

Naturally, these V's appearing so suddenly and strangely in such unexpected places wrought consternation in the minds of both Hitler and Mussolini.

How these V's managed to invade the innermost privacies of the two super-men who were engaged in the conquering and making over the world was too much for them to understand.

Mussolini, the lantern-jawed invincible, who had just shipped a dagger into the kidneys of France, was raved and roared in savage fury. What would the shade of Julius Caesar think of his reincarnated prototype, if he permitted his enemies to sneak into his sleeping quarters and paste comic cartoons on his uniform, then escape unscathed and unharmed?

Besides, if the enemy could paste (Continued On Page Seven)

Thought lies too deep in some to phrase
And hope too high for song.
But love is told in other ways
By those whose love is strong.

They may not write with gifted pen
Or win the throne's applause
For they are of the silent men

The Great Game Of Politics

Conflict And Confusion

WASHINGTON, March 2.—THE CONFUSION within the Administration seven in peace times its outstanding characteristic has been greatly increased recently by the extraordinary assistance of the President in dealing with domestic questions of really great importance. This quality is reflected among his friends, many of whom seem wholly to have lost their sense of direction.

NEITHER THE good news from Africa nor the propaganda stories explaining how notwithstanding evidence to the contrary, everybody in the Administration vineyard is laboring nobly and effectively, is sufficient to obscure from any informed person the fact that the war effort is being weakened and the national morale not improved. These results are the inevitable outcome of indecision and procrastination at the top. Take the three larger muds which cry out—and have been crying out for a long time, for Presidential action without getting action and which for that reason get worse all the time.

THERE IS the mess into which the WPB has gotten with its titular head, Mr. Nelson, practically on the shelf, and its new executive vice-chairman, Mr. Wilson, in a hostile clinch with the army-navy procurement heads. No one thinks this situation can last, but no one can do much about it until the President makes up his mind. Then there is the Manpower Commission muddle. From this commission there has emanated a series of such conflicting and bewildering statements, orders, proclamations and pronouncements that everybody's head is in a whirl and nothing makes sense. Here the incompetence is so clear that in Congress and out, there is a demand for a change. But, while name after name is mentioned as Mr. McNutt's successor, no change is made and the whole show just marks time.

EVEN MORE appalling is the lack of a clear food production policy and the resultant scarcity which threatens the country. On this vital business, hardly anyone contends that the right method is being used, or that there has been foresight or firmness in the Administration handling. What has happened in connection with food prices in the Service last Thursday is so inexplicable as to baffle practically everybody who has tried to reconcile it with reason. Reference is to the overwhelming and almost unanimous defeat of the food price-control program in the Senate. The President and Economic Stabilization

No Comment From White House On Labor Draft Bill

"Hands Off" Attitude Toward Austin-Wadsworth Measure As Hearings Begin

By WILLIAMS S. NEAL
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
WASHINGTON, March 2.—The White House today was reported to be maintaining a temporary "hands off" policy on the Austin-Wadsworth labor draft bill as the Senate military affairs committee prepared to open hearings on the measure.

"I do not know the attitude of the administration," said Democratic Senate Leader Barkley. "My own attitude is one of watchful waiting."

Before beginning hearings on the labor draft measure, the committee was scheduled to vote on the Bankhead bill calling for deferment of all farm labor from the draft. The committee was reported to be closely divided on the Bankhead proposal which, along with a companion bill to furlough farmers now in the armed forces, was assailed by the war department.

Congress appeared headed for a bitter battle over the Austin-Wadsworth legislation which was endorsed by Secretary of War Stimson but opposed by War Manpower Chief Paul V. McNutt who said that he would exhaust voluntary methods for mobilizing manpower before turning to compulsion.

Under terms of the labor draft measure, the President would have authority to require men from 18 to 65 and women from 18 to 50 to go into specified war jobs.

west of Rostov where the Russians are driving on the sea of Azov port at Taganrog and the Russians reported capturing an important height after slaying 186 of the enemy.

In the Donets region one Soviet unit penetrated a German defense line, blew up three ammunition dumps and killed 70 Nazis. On another sector the Germans counter-attacked but were repelled.

Resistance Collapsed
The first phase of the northern offensive was finished after an eight-day battle in which the Russians captured the town of Demiansk, center of a hedgehog defense system. When German resistance collapsed and the Nazi troops fled westward, Russian forces swept on in rapid pursuit, liberating 302 towns in an area of 1,000 square miles.

The Germans lost 8,000 men killed in battle and 2,000 captured. Captured war material included 78 planes, 97 tanks, 289 artillery pieces and 700 machine guns.

The new Russian offensive, the eighth launched by the Russians since November 19 when the drive to free Stalingrad was hurled against Axis positions on the Volga, was organized and led by the ubiquitous Marshal Semyon Timoshenko.

Some eight weeks ago Timoshenko threw the Germans out of Schlussemburg and relieved Leningrad of the threat of enemy encirclement. The new offensive south of Lake Limen was regarded in military circles as a preliminary move to an assault on Staraya Russa just south of the lake.

Press Drive Westward
With the fall of Staraya Russa Marshal Timoshenko would be free to press his drive westward towards the Estonian border, or swing northward towards the Gulf of Finland to trap the Nazi siege army before Leningrad.

Berlin reported still another Russian offensive under way further north in the Lake Ladoga region east of Leningrad. There, according to a Reuters report of the Berlin broadcast the Russians hurled 17 waves of infantry against German lines.

Berlin also reported new Soviet onslaughts east of Taganrog on the sea of Azov, and in the Kuban area of the western Caucasus.

German successes were claimed in the Donets Basin. Berlin said the town of Barvenkovo, 80 miles southeast of Kharkov, had been captured Sunday in bloody street fighting. The German drive was said to be headed towards Izyum, bridgehead city on the west bank of the Donets, 25 miles northeast of Barvenkovo.

Timoshenko's drive on Demiansk started from the ice-covered lakes Elbe and Seliger in the Valdai hills. After driving 25 miles northwest to take Demiansk, Russian columns smashed north to Lyckovo, and then pushed another 25 miles west to take the strongly fortified district center of Zaluzev. Lyckovo is within 18 miles of Staraya Russa. The Soviet midnight communiqué was the second in succession which made no reference to fighting in the Kramatorsk area. German claims to have captured this stronghold midway between Kharkov and Rostov still lacked confirmation in Soviet quarters.

Diseased Meat Is Threatening Public Health

Meat Sold On Black Market Slaughtered Before Inspection Time

By ELLIOTT HAYES
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, March 2.—Eating of diseased meat sold to the public through the black market is threatening the health of the American people, Congress was told today.

The warning came from Wilbur La Roe, Jr., general counsel for the National Independent Meat Packers' Association, testifying before a Senate Agriculture subcommittee investigating food production from the field to the consumers table.

"For many years the packing industry has cooperated with the Department of Agriculture in protecting the public against diseased meat," La Roe said. "Now the black market threatens to undo all that has been done because diseased meat is just as bad as the bootleggers' liquor."

"The government's plan for checking these diseases was to order the animals slaughtered in packing houses where they could be inspected. Suspected animals had low commercial value, but now the cattle have been permitted to advance in price without a ceiling. The commercial value of these animals is so great that unlicensed bootleggers are buying them from farmers before inspection time."

First Co-Ed Show In North Africa Scores Smash Hit

Army Doughboys, WAACs Give Two-Hour Production To Responsive Audience

By CLINTON GREEN
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, March 2.—The Army's first co-educational show, with a cast of doughboys and WAACs, was a smash hit, all those who could get in to see it agreed today.

The outstanding hit of the show was Norma Strauss of Cincinnati, whose interpretation of a Hawaiian dancer set up a steady roar among the officers and men in the audience.

The two-hour show was produced by Sgt. George Boybyl, 21, of Paterson, N. J. His cast included more stars than many a Broadway performance. At least the audience thought so, for it cheered, applauded and whistled happily throughout the performance.

But Miss Strauss, a demure secretary type in a gay-colored Hawaiian costume, catering to the strains of soft South Seas music, brought down the house.

Music was provided by a local French orchestra which was declared to be "solid." It was a great help to Dorothy Godley of Fort Worth in getting across a couple of torch songs.

Others WAACs in the show included Eva Sickler of Pittsburgh, Pa.

within the space of 15 minutes. As they left the target areas, a second wave swept in and demolished the job in probably the best example of timing seen in this war.

The first bomb blasted a hole into Adolf Hitler's capital at 10:04 p. m., and the last one exploded at 10:35. British bombers left England for this 58th attack upon Berlin at intervals of one minute and returned with the same clock-like regularity. Crews poured out of the planes wildly enthusiastic, and as one man they said:

"Berlin has been well and truly pranged."

"Prang" is the favorite Royal Air Force expression for coordinated and effective bombing.

Skies over the target area were free of clouds and visibility was virtually perfect.

Sixth Successive Night Attack
Returning crews said that they were able to see plainly all of Berlin's landmarks, including the Spree, lakes and famous large buildings.

The raid was Berlin's 58th and it was the sixth successive night on which the Reich was rocked by the blast of British aerial bombs.

One pilot who spent 15 minutes inside the ring of Berlin's aerial defenses stated that although there were a number of searchlights in action and there was plenty of anti-aircraft fire the defenses were "not up to Berlin's usual standard."

"Once through the outer ring of defenses the flak wasn't by any means intense," he said.

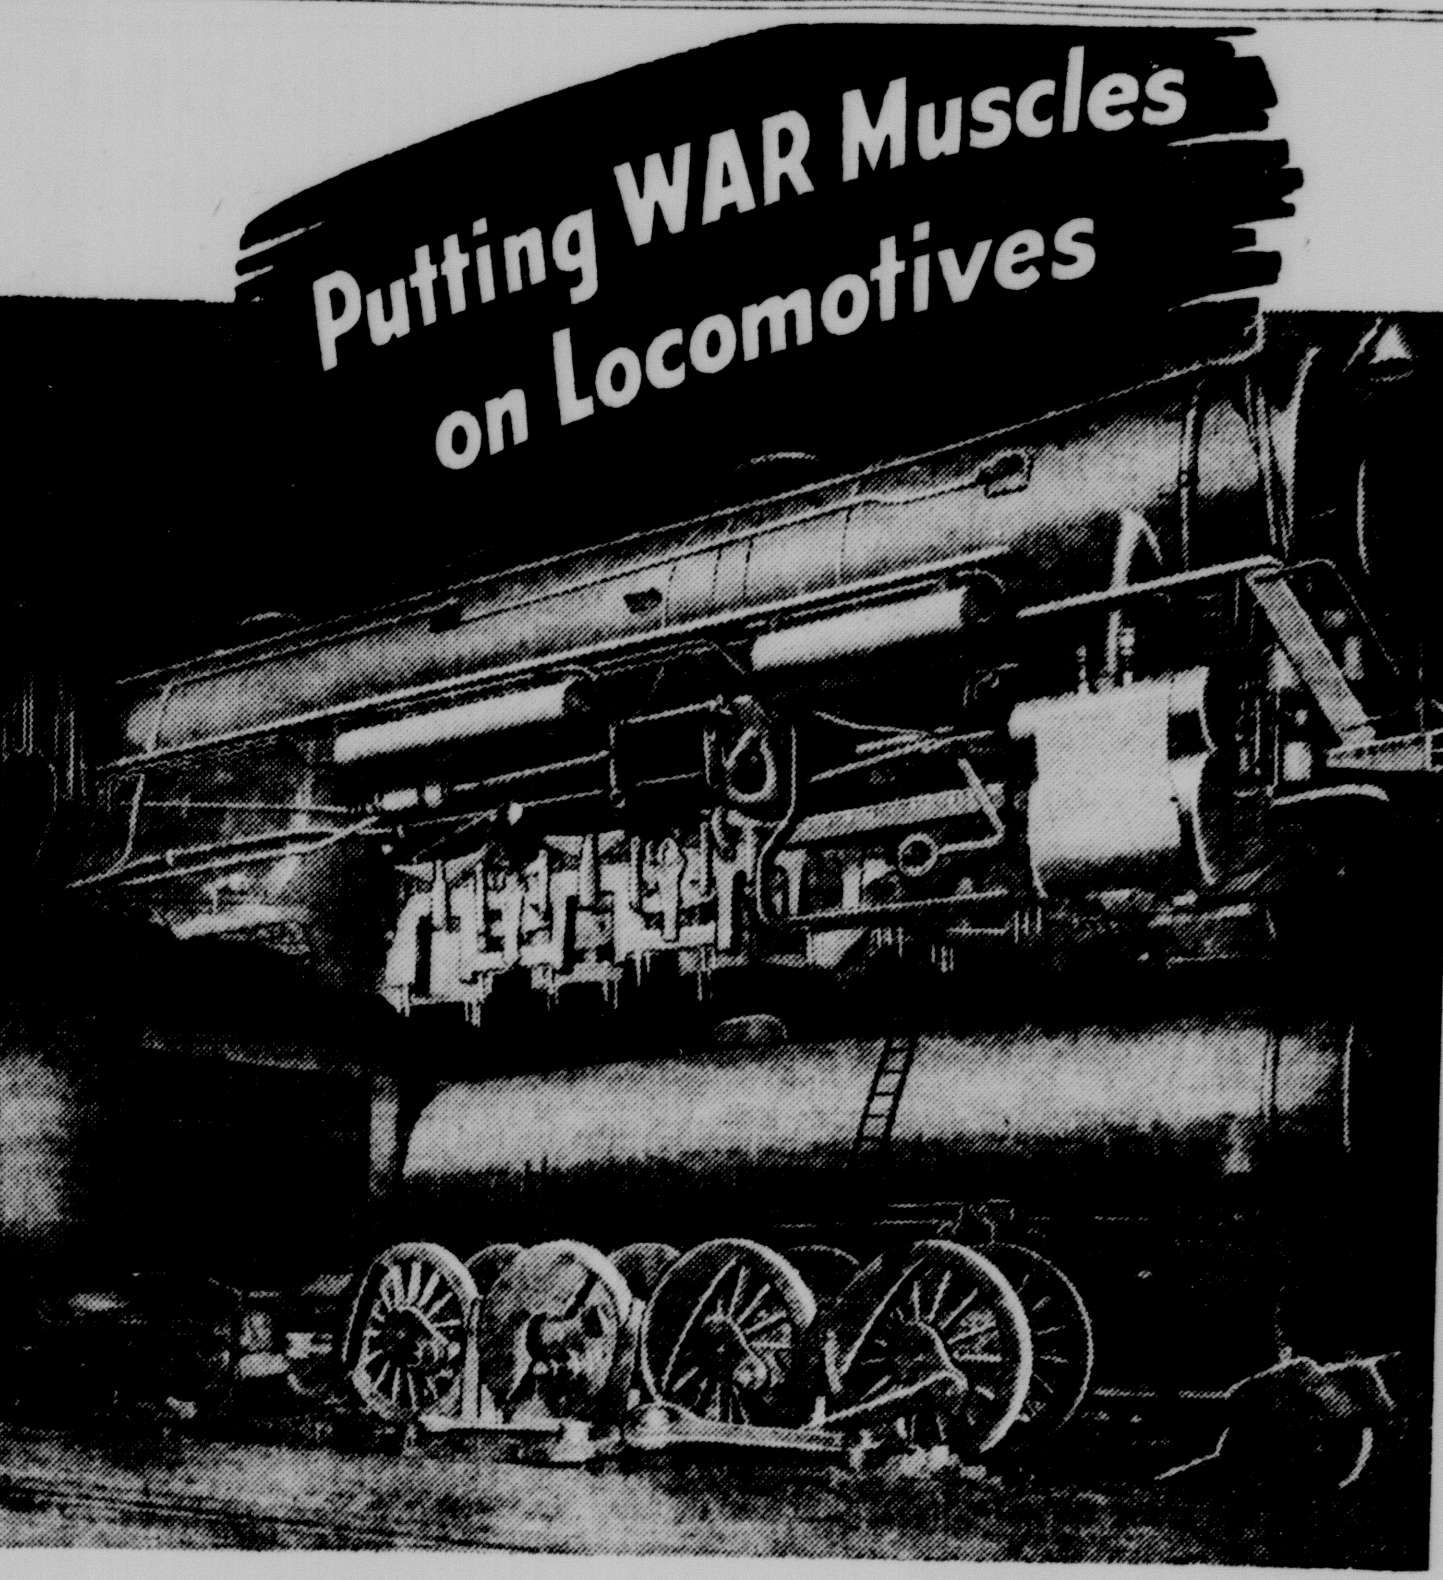

Biggest Blitzes
The Nazis themselves described the raid as a "concentric attack," which probably meant that the British fliers swarmed in over the city from all directions simultaneously to unload their lethal bombs in a short space of time.

London's evening newspapers called the bombardment "one of the biggest blitzes of the war."

The latest assault on Berlin probably on a scale comparable to the heaviest of the recent devastating assaults on the Rhine industrial city of Cologne and exceeded only by the historic 1,000-bomber exploit against that city last May 30.

When the time comes to reveal the total force employed last night it is believed the figures will show that the percentage loss to the R. A. F. was extraordinarily light considering the distance involved and the weight of Berlin's defenses.

Fortune telling is as easy as predicting weather. When the sky has been clear just so long, clouds are due.

YOU'RE looking at a sight rarely seen by anyone outside railroad circles. It's the interior of a locomotive rebuilding shop where skilled mechanics put war muscles on 250-ton giants.

These war muscles—boosters, superheaters, and other devices for increasing speed and pulling power—make it possible for America's railroads to move America's war materials and essential civilian goods swiftly to where they are needed.

Yet, boosting motive power is only one of the many ways rail transportation is made fit and kept fit to help Uncle Sam.

Long before Pearl Harbor this "fitness" campaign was in full swing. Thousands of miles of main line track was replaced with heavier, more durable rails; automatic control devices were installed; new designs to increase the usefulness of cars were adopted; and many other measures were taken, and are being taken, to haul more goods in shorter time and at less cost.

As a result, engines, cars, rails, bridges, and terminal facilities have held up under the ceaseless pounding of double loads and emergency schedules through two years of preparedness and one year of war—with few replacements and a minimum use of strategic materials.

The greatest transportation job in history is being done. And it will continue to be done next year and the next and the next, in war or peace. For rail transportation is essential to the health, security, and general well-being of the nation.

Garden Hints

Order fruit trees, berries and shrubs and fruiting vines for planting in March.

Spraying with lime-sulphur, or with miscible oils, during warm winter weather is the most effective method of eradicating scale insects from fruit trees and shrubs.

Hardwood ashes should be carefully saved and stored and kept dry. They are very rich in potash and should be used on parts of the vegetable garden when an extra amount of that fertilizer is needed.

This month, repair and paint all sash and other equipment of cold frames and hotbeds. Place sash on the cold frame so that the ground will warm up and dry out for early use.

Apple and pear trees may be pruned in moderate weather now. Broken branches also should be removed at this time. Grape vines can also be pruned whenever the weather is not freezing.

Destroy plant refuse which is known or suspected to carry insect infestation or disease infection. In its destruction avoid making fires near trees, shrubs or hedges which may be injured by the heat of the flames.

Argentina is studying a plan for co-ordination of its transportation.

Kidderminster and Ingrain carpet are the same. One name is derived from the English town where it is made, and the other signifies that the carpet is made of wool or worsted dyed in the grain—before manufacture.

If you think shoes are made to fit feet, try find an adult with a natural nail on his longest toe.

Another way to beat the higher cost of living is to quit living on high.

Plant Hearing In Fifth Day

N. L. R. B. Hearings May Extend Through Into Coming Week It Is Indicated

Possibilities of the National Labor Relation Board hearing of charges against the Johnson Bronze Company adjourning by Saturday afternoon seemed remote today as the hearing went into its fifth day today in the court house, with the board still presenting testimony. The case resumed Monday afternoon after the week-end recess. Examiner M. Riemer is presiding in the case.

Monday afternoon Robert Pascarella was called back to the stand for cross examination following his direct examination on Saturday afternoon. On Saturday he had testified that as a departmental foreman or machine setter in the plant he had been instructed by his superior to hand out membership application cards to the people in his department.

Long Cross Examination

Pascarella was cross examined at length by Attorneys Canfield and Salmon who are appearing for the company and the Bronze Workers' Independent Union, respectively. He was on the stand from the opening of the hearing until 3:30.

The highlight of his cross examination was an admission made by him that he had joined the B. W. I. U. "merely as a matter of form." He said that he "never had any sincere interest in the union from the time he joined." Later he became affiliated with the CIO-UAW and is now an officer of the union.

Both counsel pressed him for an explanation of his actions in joining an organization in which he had no interest and he replied repeatedly, "I have no explanation." "Did you join the B. W. I. U. so you would be in a position to aid another union?" was asked the witness. The question was objected to and the objection sustained.

After he had testified that he had received no compensation for his work in the CIO-UAW he was asked "don't you think your services were worth something?" Objected to and sustained.

Checked Cards

Pascarella testified that he had turned over the signed membership application cards to his superior L. McClelland in the Black Whale. Upon cross examination there appeared to be a discrepancy in his statements as to the number of cards he had turned over. As he left the stand, both sides asked for and received permission from Examiner Riemer to recall Pascarella.

Jack Llewellyn, an employee of the Johnson Bronze Co. for over two years was called and corroborated Pascarella's testimony as to the turning over of membership application cards to McClelland in the Black Whale.

This morning Harvey Riley and Walter E. Green were called. Riley corroborated Pascarella's testimony concerning the transfer of the cards. Green testified that he had left the employ of the Johnson Bronze Co. because he believed he had not been treated right by the men over him.

He said that he had joined the CIO-UAW and that "wearing the button on his coat seemed to add fire to his case." He said he had signed a complaint in writing which he had given to someone he couldn't remember who. Pressed upon this point he said he had been told that the man to whom he gave the statement in the CIO hall was a lawyer. Asked if he knew the lawyer he said no but he thought he was from Cleveland. Counsel then asked him if it had not been Attorney S. Craig Carnes, who is one of the counsel for the NLRB in the case. Mr. Green then identified Mr. Carnes as the man to whom he had given his statement.

It is possible the case may finish by Saturday afternoon but there is also a possibility it will run over into next week.

People appreciate or hate a public utility depending on whether the one man they deal with is a nice fellow or a tough guy.

One Dies, 15 Hurt In Explosion, Fire At Plexigum Plant

Bristol, Pa., Chemical Works
Is Wrecked By Unexplained Blast

(International News Service)
BRISTOL, Pa., March 2.—One man was dead and 15 other men and women were injured today following an explosion and fire which wrecked the Plexigum plant of the Rohm & Haas Chemical company at Bristol.

The cause of the blast has not been determined. Despite the damage, officials said they hoped to make arrangements to continue production.

The dead man was Thomas Neil of Langhorne, Pa. Six of those injured were reported in serious condition, and a score of others were rescued from the roof by firemen. Chief of Police Lynford Jones of Bristol said. The plant makes plastic noses for bombers and tank turrets.

Only one of the 15 buildings on the grounds was hit by the fire and blast. Two freight trains loaded with explosive chemicals, were pushed to safety by volunteers. It was the second explosion at the plant within a year. Last June 26 two explosions started a fire in the synthetic glass unit of the plant. The Rohm & Haas company was one of a group investigated last year by the government in connection with charges of German-controlled Cartel involving patents. Earlier this year, the plant was awarded the army-navy "E" for excellence in the production of plastics for bombing planes.

Will Continue Trade With Spain

State Department Stands
Ground Despite Adverse
Criticism In Nation

By KINGSBURY SMITH
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, March 2.—In the face of strong criticism from anti-appeasement elements, the State Department today stood firm in its policy of trading with Spain in an effort to keep that country neutral in the European conflict.

American officials believe the limited amount of oil, cotton and food which Spain is permitted to purchase in the western hemisphere is worth the price of that country's neutrality at the present time—especially in view of the fact that a powerful Spanish arm is massed in Spanish Morocco on the rear flank of the American forces in North Africa.

In addition to helping maintain Spanish neutrality, the American trade policy toward Spain enables the United States to obtain from that country vital raw materials which otherwise would go to the Axis.

The fact that Spain's neutrality is a matter of the utmost importance to the national interests of the United States at this time was emphasized by Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles in a formal statement.

Welles' statement was prompted by the wave of criticism that developed over a speech made in Barcelona by American Ambassador Carlton J. H. Hayes. In an effort to convince the Spanish people of the benefits of trading with the United States, Hayes said the petroleum products available in that country at present were "considerably higher than the present per capita distribution" to people on the Atlantic Seaboard of America.

The totals for the ration books issued last week were arrived at today. In the entire county there were 97,881 books issued, which seems to indicate that the county's population is well over 100,000 at the present time.

Registration of retail merchants for point rationing will be held from April 1 to April 10, it was announced today by Robert A. Eekies, executive secretary of the War Price and Rationing Board. Mr. Eekies also stated that the forms have already arrived in the ration office in the Aiken School on Pearson Street and retailers who wish to get them now and familiarize themselves with the forms may do so.

Retailers are required to register much as they did for sugar. They file their inventories and other information concerning their business. The retailers are not given ration books for their business as they replenish their stocks with the ration coupons turned in to them.

At the present time the board is registering industrial and institutional users of foodstuffs. This will take until March 15 and because of this, no personal registrations for Ration Book 2 can be made until after March 15. This means that householders who did not register during the week assigned are out of luck until after March 15.

WAR BONDS GIVEN AWAY

Post-War Program Planned For State

By RAYMOND WILCOVE

HARRISBURG, March 2—Gov. Edward Martin has asked the General Assembly to approve a post-war program which envisages the use of perhaps as much as $100,000,000 or more in state funds to stave off a possible depression when peace comes.

The money would be employed for the construction of public projects, sanitation, roads and reforestation, and, if necessary, for the rehabilitation or hospitalization of soldiers and their readjustment after their return from the war.

In an address to the Legislature last night following the presentation of his biennial budget, the governor suggested that the General Assembly "take the first step" at this session to borrow the necessary funds through a bond issue. He did not recommend any specific amount but it is known that he feels at least $50,000,000 and perhaps upwards of $100,000,000 may be needed.

A bond issue would require a constitutional amendment, which must first be approved by the present Legislature and by the 1945 General Assembly. It would then have to be submitted, not less than three months after its legislative approval, to the electorate for its sanction before the money could be borrowed. In addition, the governor stated, still other funds, such as motor revenue, could be used for the purpose.

Recommends Commission

As a companion measure, the governor recommended the creation of a post-war planning commission whose activities would be carried on with an appropriation of at least $200,000. A bill will be introduced to carry out his recommendations, he stated.

"The adjustment of our people's affairs from the business of war to that of peace is bound to cause some strain, particularly since we went into war from a lengthy period of economic distress," the chief executive told the legislators at a joint session of the house and senate.

"I am certain no one wants to return to the conditions which existed before the war, yet this is likely to happen if we do not all join in planning and working to see that they are avoided," he emphasized.

"We may be faced with a short period of severe unemployment while factories are changing over from war to peace production," he continued. "Since this is likely, public works and other appropriate projects must be ready for an immediate start."

"As peacetime production begins there will probably be much employment during the time we are producing the things we have done without during the war. This employment must continue—not for five or ten years, but indefinitely."

"It is the job of all of us—hence, of government—to see that it continues."

The World and the Mud Puddles

him with a letter V they might decide some night to slip a sharp blade under his fifth rib.

And Brother Hitler was no better. They were sticking letter V's all over the domain of the Vaterland, and like the two clowns in the circus, each thought the other was doing it to him.

Hitler summoned his whole tribe of astrologers, and what he told them was plain.

"If you don't get the blitz on dese Wees its der sausage grinder for you swine," roared Adolf.

How do you expect even the mighty Fuehrer to run a war with such monkey business all the while? Vot have I got you astrologers for? Its Verboten! Raus mittem!

What those letter V's did to the Hitler and Mussolini boys has now become a matter of history.

First, Hitler gave up the attempt to invade England. Just when England should have fallen on her face and yelled, "Kamerad," she up and flooded the nation with letter V's. Adolf held a consultation with himself. Says he to himself—"I am the great Fuehrer. I do the marvelous acts by intuition; I don't tell anybody out I get it from my great astrologers. I'm the guy that blitzes them. The swine can't dope me out. I'm the great Hitler. I shine myself. Boy! bring me a full length mirror—and don't forget der stein of beah."

"Now, look at me. Nobody verstays me, the great Hitler, and I don't hardly savvy myself. Only a barn painter. Now look at me! The whole world afraid of me. Or, are they?"

"Maybe I better take my soldiers and give my old friend Big Joe, in Russia, a couple of blitzes."

"A grand idea! Only me, der Fuehrer, could ever think such a thought."

"Bring me Little Fritz, the head astrologer."

"Heil, Hitler. Fritz. Here's an intuition:—

"The stars say for me to wipe up the earth with Big Joe in Russia, no!"

"Ya, so be it."

"Call the guard. Head everything for Russia. We'll blitz them and come back in a couple of days, and finish these English swine. They don't know when they're licked."

My dear brother, Tojo, the Jap is a fool. He is about to take a swing on America, and nobody knows what those ignorant American swine might do if they all get mad at once. Tojo wants to make himself a Christmas present of America.

"But me, the great Hitler I don't like them American swine. My astrologers don't seem to have any done on them. They always look out the window when I want my American intuition polished up."

"Besides, I, me, the great Fuehrer don't trust Big Joe nor Little Tojo either. They get too smart for their pants sometimes. I want to cash in my chips before those American swine take a stack in this game."

"I am not sorry for anybody, but it makes me laugh when I think what Tojo will look like when America gets through with him."

"My intuition tells me that this is the exact moment when me, the great Hitler, better start pulling in his horns."

"Ever since those hellish letter V's started around something tells me they had a meaning, a terrible meaning. That is psychology, and nobody but me, the great Hitler knows much about psychology, but I know it. I can feel the crotch of that V hanging over my great nose already yet."

And so mused the great Hitler far into the night. In his own pure language, he was smelling a rat.

The exact process of how a simple psychological twist works on the human imagination cannot be fully explained, but something happened in this World War when that mysterious but powerful letter V began operations. It completely superseded propaganda, fifth columnists, the Bund, the Green Shirts, and all the spy systems.

It might have been a spiritual inspiration. It might have been the mysterious hand-writing, and having written, moved on.

All we know is that it happened. The great letter V became a symbol, a token, a jewel, an insignia, and it meant success, victory for the Allies, and defeat and destruction for the Axis.

Wherever the Letter V appeared in the free and independent nations, it stimulated the hearts of the people. The war started in the other direction.

The V's came to America with a bang. First, as a motto, then as a battle cry, a boutonniere, a brand of clothe, and last, but not least, the V Gardens.

When it hit the vegetable garden, it became a reality, not only a war-weapon. And when it hit the garden, it involved, muscle, work, hope, food. That takes it out of the class of propaganda and lines it up with beans and squash and onions and watermelons.

It is an excellent illustration of hocus-pocus translated into Americanism. A nightmare for Adolf and Mussolini, it is horseradish for us. It better be good or we'll have a pack of hungry unhappy gardeners.

that it shortly will simply HAVE to surrender control into a single manager's hands—that everybody will do it and there will not be any further argument.

The outcome will depend, to a material extent, upon the development of competency in the executive bureaus.

The switching of heads among them has not advertised them very favorably.

It is indicated that some of them are not overly well thought of by the White House itself. If so, why cannot congress be critical?

The house of representatives is crankier than the senate.

The lower chamber thinks it is closer to the people than the upper one, and feels popular reactions sooner.

Another election will tell that. In the meantime, the war's progress results will signify.

Public sentiment's trend will weigh tremendously also.

Mme. Chiang Kai-shek's visit in Washington has done so enormously.

Mme. Chiang registered not only at the executive mansion, but on Capitol Hill likewise. She really is the best ambassador or lady ambassador that Washington has ever entertained.

She really may be described as possibly having turned the tide of war.

I do not know how long Mme. Chiang plans to stay in the United States, but she has planned for quarters and a family of 20 or 30 indefinitely—quite a call, I would surmise. Well, believe me, she is plenty popular, politically and socially. And social popularity counts likewise. It is something that our other allied embassies have neglected, maybe.

The point is that other diplomats, perhaps, have been a trifle too formal.

Mme. Chiang did not make that mistake. She has united congressional and executive dope.

She has congress lined up and the executive branch, too.

As an outsider, butting in, she is a wonder.

Think of a Chinese lady harmonizing the president and the congress of the United States!

Deficiency Fund Not Recommended For State Auditor

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, March 2—Gov. Edward Martin disclosed today in his budget recommendations that he had refused a request of Auditor General F. Clair Ross for a $150,000 deficiency appropriation.

The governor merely recommended the allocation of $1,450,000 to the Democratic-controlled department, the same amount appropriated for two previous bienniums.

"In view of the amount of work being performed by the auditor general in comparison with the amount turned out by his predecessor," the governor declared, "this should be ample in spite of increased salary payments to individual employees as he may be called upon to make."

He said that "the auditor general is behind in his work for apparently other reasons than financial."

The Great Game Of Politics

the nation was absolutely vital if the threat of a devastating inflation is to be averted.

YET, WHEN the test came the Administration not only put up no fight for its own program but permitted its own leaders such as Senators Barkley of Kentucky, Senators Guffy, Pepper and other New Deal rubber stamps, who never vote against the White House wish, to join the opposition. In other words, the Administration scuttled its own proposals—or, at least, acquiesced in the scuttling. Efforts to get an explanation of this strange act have been fruitless. The suggestion that the proposals could not have been saved anyhow does not hold water. Under existing circumstances, it is hard to find a parallel for this failure of the President to support his own proposition.

IS THERE ANY wonder confusion is on the increase and the whole structure here undermined by the uncertainties? On Friday one of the President's journalistic friends and supporters who usually speaks by the book put forth the idea that Mr. Roosevelt is now devoting himself to matters of military strategy and foreign policy and has "largely divested himself of domestic and economic affairs"; that Mr. Byrnes is now in charge of the home front. Wholly aside from the home front, the notion sharply clashes with recent appointments, such as those of Mr. Flynn, of ex-Senators Brown, of Michigan; Josh Lee, of Oklahoma; Schwartz of Wyoming; ex-Gov. James V. Alfred of Texas, and other home-duck New Dealers for whose selection none but a political reason can be given.

NOW, MR. BYRNES did not make these appointments. Mr. Roosevelt made them and made them from a quite obvious political angle. They cannot be linked with any lack of interest in domestic affairs or any lack of interest in the fourth-term movement now brought out in the open by his friends. Some of these insist that he is only "mildly interested" in a fourth term. Others say that, of course, he will be re-nominated and that the campaign is well under way, exactly the same strategy being used this time as in the third-term campaign.

There seems plenty of foundation for the latter assertion and it is one of the reasons for the inflated state of mind which so many Democratic Senators are in at the moment. In any event, it seems timely to recall the recent statement of Governor Dewey of New York in connection with the Republican nomination. Eliminating himself from consideration, Mr. Dewey declared that he would not be "drafted" for a Presidential nomination without consulting in the "draft" the truth of that is incontestable.

Reelfoot Lake, Tenn., 14,500-acre stretch of water, was formed by an earthquake in 1811 when the bottom of a forest dropped 20 feet and the Mississippi river overflowed its basin.

Wartime "Bag-o-Tricks" to conserve eyes and light!

Try this slight-of-hand with a damp rag. Rub it over lamp bulbs and lamp reflector bowls and presto! more light to help you see better. Why? Because dust can hold back as much as 50% of light.

Shade tricks for more light: use white-lined shades; brush silk shades; reline parchment shades, using shelf paper and Scotch tape or flat-white paint. And be sure that shades are deep enough.

Help to conserve also by arranging lamps and furniture so each lamp can if necessary serve two or more people with good light. But be sure each person sits close enough to the lamp.

Have eyes examined by a competent eyesight specialist. Good light helps make seeing easier; it does not correct eye defects.

Madame Chiang Is Honorary Citizen Of New York City

China's First Lady Carries Out
Official Reception In Spite Of Illness

By JANE COCHRAN
Special Correspondent

NEW YORK, March 2.—The first lady of China became an honorary citizen of New York on Monday as several thousand Chinese who poured into City Hall Park for the city's official reception to Mme. Chiang Kai-Shek cheered wildly.

And then, a few minutes later, she was led into the mayor's office so weak that her private nurse produced the smelling salts and insisted that her charge rest for a few minutes.

Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia announced that he was conferring honorary citizenship on her. Although she had not intended to speak, Mme. Chiang did, despite the fact that she was not feeling well.

After her brief rest in the mayor's office following the short ceremony, her nurse and a doctor suggested that she return to her hotel, but she carried through her original schedule of visiting Chinatown and speaking briefly to a group of Chinese leaders assembled in a school house.

Victory Garden Notes

(By LEWIS C. DAYTON)
(Asst. County Agent)

WHAT TO GROW

Victory gardeners should plan to grow as much of their vegetable requirements as their space allows. Careful attention to the choice of vegetables is important. Some vegetables require a large amount of space, while others produce a large amount in a small space.

Where space is limited, the practice of staking tomatoes will produce a large crop for the amount of ground required. Pole beans of all kinds also are large producers, compared with bush beans.

In the small garden the use of 50 plants of Pritchard or Oxheart tomatoes placed about two feet apart and tied to stakes will supply most of the requirements for a family of five.

Other crops which may be grown in small gardens are listed below with the recommended variety.

Beets—Detroit Dark Red
Carrots—Red Core Chantenay
Parasnis—Hollow Crown
Radish—Scarlet Globe, White Icicle, Chinese Winter
Rutabaga—Yellow Globe
Chard—Swiss—Fordhook Giant

Lettuce—leaf—Black Seeded Simpson
Spinach—New Zealand, Smooth Nobel, Savoy, Long Standing.

One jacket of each variety of these seeds will be sufficient for most families.

In addition to the vegetables already listed, a dozen plants of Green Sprouting Broccoli and of Golden Acre or Copenhagen Market Cabbage should be planted for early summer use.

Where the garden is large enough to provide all that is needed of these vegetables, the gardener should then plant the following quantities of the vegetables listed below:

Pole Lime Beans—Giant Podded, Ideal, Leveithan, 1/2 lb.
Snap Pole Beans—Kentucky Wonder, 1 lb.
Mid-Season Cabbage—Glory or Marion Market, 24 plants.
Onion Sets—Ebenezer, bottle, 1 1/2 lbs.
Turnips—Golden Ball or White Globe, 1 package.

It is advisable to obtain seeds for the vegetables you plan to plant. Do not get more than you can use, however, as others may need the seed you won't be using.

MARINES TAKE FEW PRISONERS

'When You See 'Em, You Shoot 'Em,' Explains Officer Home From Front

(International News Service)

SAVANNAH, Ga., March 2.—Commenting on the courage of the Japanese soldiers, Lieut. J. E. Simpson of the U. S. marines, home from Guadalcanal, said they are fanatical but not necessarily courageous. "The Jap is highly over-rated as a fighter, because of his lack of initiative," Simpson said. "They keep doing the same thing over and over, no matter how many of their number you mow down. They seem to follow an order with fanatical devotion, but if things go wrong they lack judgment and initiative as well as imagination."

The marine officer said that his outfit captured only two Japs during the two months he was on Guadalcanal before he was wounded. He explained:

"When you see 'em, you just shoot the little rascals. You don't have time to try to capture them, for they might shoot you in the meantime."

Most of the advance by the marines was made by day, Lieut. Simpson revealed, adding that "at night we scattered from the trails and dug into fox holes and stayed there."

The Japs attacked at night and if we were moving around, we would be in danger of being fired upon by our own men. Sometimes the Japs would attack in a company with a lot of noise, and again they would quietly try to filter through our lines. But they never got thru where we were."

OCD NOTES

Activities Of OCD Workers Are Outlined Here

Because of the blackout drill Thursday, the first aid class which was scheduled to meet will convene Wednesday night on the second floor of the city hall. There will also be a meeting of all air raid wardens, fire-watchers and messengers of the First precinct of the Fifth ward at 905 South Mill street on Wednesday night. Committees On Car Maintenance To Be Sponsored By ODT

Will Advise Motorists How To Keep Car Running With Least Repairs

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, March 2.—In a move toward safeguarding continued operation of existing automotive equipment despite serious shortages of materials and manpower the ODT announced on Monday that it is sponsoring the establishment of maintenance advisory committees throughout the country.

The ODT said that present shortages and possibility of great future shortages of essential parts, maintenance materials, tools and equipment make preventive maintenance measures a "must" throughout the automotive field.

"The need for the development of a comprehensive maintenance program is further emphasized by the growing shortage of mechanics and drivers, and the necessity for training men and women to replace those entering the armed forces and war industries," the ODT said. "The shortage of mechanics already has caused the closing of many garages and dealerships."

GRAND JURY MEETS
The March term of the grand jury got under way in the court house Monday morning with 6 of the 24 called, excused for various reasons. Following the jury polling Frank R. Cartwright of the second ward, was named foreman and sworn. The jury was then sworn.

Twenty-one cases will be considered by the grand jury unless more pleas are taken. Eight pleas were taken Monday morning which obviates consideration by the grand jury.

Following are the names, occupations and addresses of the jurors excused: Walter Bannon, laborer, Taylor township; Lillian Burke, housekeeper, South New Castle Boro; John Gallick, laborer, 3rd ward.

Thanks to your contributions and many others like them, twenty millions of war victims have been helped

Now opportunity is offered again. This is the most critical year your Red Cross has ever faced. On every hand, needs rise with the swelling thunder of the guns.

Will Red Cross funds be sufficient to help every soldier and sailor—every stunned and bewildered war sufferer? That depends on you—and your generosity.

THE ANSWER IS NO
Unless Hugh Berger can dig up something new in the way of a reason why he should be released, he is going to stay in the western penitentiary for some time yet. Berger, alias Lou Edwards is doing eight to sixteen years for burglary in New Castle in the summer of 1940.

Some time ago Berger took out a writ of Coram Nobis, which is a common law writ, asking that he be permitted to come before the court and show that he was imprisoned unjustly. His reason filed were unique to say the least, one of them being that the commonwealth alleged that the burglary took place in the building of the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company but did not say the building was occupied by the company. Berger was found in the cellar of the store. To use the language of Judge Braham, the petitioners' reasons are of the most capacious and technical kind."

Because the writ was presented by Berger himself and not through an attorney Judge Braham gave the petition unusual consideration. After reviewing it carefully the petition is dismissed.

NEW U. S. M-10 TANKS SMASHING AXIS IN AFRICA

Thursday Drill Uses New Signals

Test Blackout Will Be Last To Be Announced In Advance

THREE STATES TO SHARE IN TEST

(International News Service) HARRISBURG, March 2.—The blackout which Pennsylvania will hold jointly with Maryland and Virginia on Thursday night will be the last drill for which the time will be announced in advance, the state defense council announced today.

The test, which will be the initial blackout of the year and the first in which the new unified defense regulation signals will be used at night is planned from 8:30 to 9:30 p. m. A tri-state daylight test held on Feb. 17 ushered in the new regulations.

"The element of surprise has been omitted from this week's drill . . . to enable everyone to get accustomed to the new air raid warning system," the council said. "However, future daylight drills and blackouts will be called without advance notice. That is the system under which we were operating before the new warning system was adopted."

Thursday's blackout, it was explained, will be a more complete test of the new warning system than the recent daylight drill because it will involve turning out lights in accordance with the new regulations.

Homes, business places, non-war industries and street lights will be blacked out at the first audible warning, a steady siren blast at 8:30 p. m. War industries and safety lights will remain illuminated, vehicles will continue on low beam and pedestrians may continue to their destinations.

The red warning, a series of fluctuating siren wails to be sounded at 9:10 p. m., will require a complete blackout and cessation of all activity, including war industries and normal traffic. Emergency traffic only, identified by "CD" pennants, may continue. The blue warning 10 minutes later will bring conditions back to their status before the red signal. Radio stations will broadcast the all-clear at 9:30 p. m. and the signal will be indicated also by air raid wardens and the turning on of street lights.

Jameson Hospital Capping Ceremony

On Monday evening 26 student nurses, who had completed the preliminary course of six months at the Jameson Memorial hospital, were presented with their caps in the auditorium of the hospital nurses home.

Miss Prudence Appelmann, director of nurses, presided. There was a candle light ceremony and candles were lit by Mrs. Ruth Moore, assistant director of nurses.

The student nurses chorus sang the hymn "I Would Be True". Miss Roberta Wimer gave a reading, "The Nurse's Cap".

Following the capping ceremony, a reception was held and the nursing art laboratory, science laboratory and the library were open for inspection.

Refreshments were served by the students.

Trees For Timber Should Be Grown Close Together

Planting Forest Trees Contrasts With Methods For Fruit Trees

HARRISBURG, March 2.—Methods of planting forest trees for timber production are in contrast with methods of planting trees for fruit production, says W. E. Montgomery, chief of the division of management, Department of Forests and Waters.

To produce the largest quality of fruit it is the crown of the tree that is important and the trunk of the tree is of minor importance, other than to support the tree. As a result, orchard trees are planted far apart in order that the crown may have space in which to spread. This also results in a trunk that is short enough to keep the fruit within picking distance.

In a forest the case is entirely different. The crown is of relatively little importance as far as the final product is concerned, and it is the trunk or main stem of the tree that produces the logs from which lumber is cut.

To produce the best lumber the stem of the tree must be free from limbs and to produce a large amount of lumber it must be tall. To make timber growing profitable, rapid height growth is desired. Nature's method is followed and trees are planted close together, approximately six feet apart. This will provide for the natural pruning of most of the side branches.

Although close spacing is necessary to produce tall, straight trees free of limbs and straight grained lumber free of knots, it is necessary to thin the plantation early in life. This is usually done when the plantation is from 20 to 30 years old and even though the thinned material may not be large enough to sell its presence up to that time has needed to insure good trees for a timber crop. On better sites, trees 20 to 30 years old will be from 30 to 40 feet in height and five to eight inches in diameter. From this stage on, thinning for fuelwood, pulpwood, box boards and other products will take their turn until the mature timber crop can be cut. The final stand will contain from one-fifth to one-tenth of the trees originally planted, on the basis of one thousand planted trees per acre.

This final crop is usually the most profitable in the life of the plantation. The combined return from all thinnings should more than pay for the cost of planting, taxes, fire protection, and forest development. In well managed forests the return from thinnings frequently amounts to half or more of the total yield during one forest rotation.

St. Michael's Church Honor Roll Unveiled

Banquet In Evening Follows Unveiling Of Parish Service Men Honor Roll

Impressive services of the unveiling of the church honor roll of men now in service, was conducted in St. Michael's church Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Well over 100 fully mechanized and equipped garrison bakeries are now in operation with the U. S. Army. The minimum estimate of a soldier's demand for bread is one-half pound per day. Most men in the field call for more, and get it.

Barney's Wife Happy He's Back

REUNION WITH HIS PRETTY WIFE, KAY

Once the toast of the boxing world, Corp. Barney Ross, of the U. S. Marines, returns to the United States after going through his "toughest fight" on Guadalcanal. Ross, 32, is credited with killing 22 Japs during an engagement last Nov. 19. Ross is shown at San Diego, Cal., upon his return aboard a big hospital ship. He has been suffering from malaria and spent some time in a field hospital in the southwest Pacific.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

One of the best of little men Eddie developed was Eddie Weigant. He was a terrific puncher at 126 but after he graduated into the 130 pound or junior lightweight division his sock apparently lost some steam. On the threshold of success he was sent by Manager Dime against southpaw Danny Kramer in Youngstown. Eddie was not sufficiently versed to oppose a good southpaw and the Philadelphia won. Weigant drew as his end a guarantee of $750 but the fight was the beginning of his end.

Dime had only recently come from a hospital and believed that, because Eddie had enjoyed a run of success against boys lesser known than Eddie was qualified to box Kramer. Others did not share this opinion. The fight had progressed only a few seconds when Danny sank a left to the solar plexus and while the fight went on for another round or two that punch was the fight. True one of Weigant's rights almost sank Kramer but it didn't.

The writer piloted Eddie for a time and there is another man here in who Weigant had a great deal of confidence. He seconded Weigant in some of his best fights. In fact, he also helped to condition him. He is Billy Clark. Weigant and Billy were quite chummy and it was only natural that whenever Billy climbed into a corner to whisper advice and pointers that Weigant would harken. Clark helped bring him through some tight holes.

Eddie fought some very good boys in the featherweight class among them Irish Chick Rodgers, now a Pittsburgh boxing king, Johnny Fundy, first A. E. F. 126-pound champion, Blockie Richards, Teddy Joyce, Canadian featherweight king, Patsy Brannigan, Eddie Pinchot, Johnny Andrews, Louie DeArco, Joe Dailey, Joe Mendo, Mickie Dillon, Danny Frush, English champion, and others who wound up years ago.

Bramham, Minor Loop Proxy, Reveals That 18 Circuits Have Locked Doors

(International News Service)
DURHAM, N. C. March 2.—Only nine minor baseball leagues have qualified to operate during the 1943 season, President W. C. Bramham of the National Association of minor professional leagues announced today.

The leagues qualified include the American Association, International League, and Pacific Coast league in Class AA; the Southern Association in Class A-1; Eastern League in Class A; Interstate and Piedmont Leagues in Class B and Appalachian and Pony League in Class D. Bramham added that clubs of the six leagues below Class AA, which were required to post guaranty deposits by yesterday had met the deadline.

He also revealed that 18 circuits which finished the 1942 season have suspended for the duration, but have kept skeleton organizations intact and plan to resume operations after the war.

ILLINI CRUSHES CHICAGO U., 92-25

(International News Service)
The well-nigh incomparable Illinois basketball team passed into western conference athletic history today with the amazing total of 12 new Big Ten records to its credit after crushing the University of Chicago outfit, 92 to 25.

With the dazzling Andy Phillip at his best and netting throws for a record 40 points, the Illini in the last contest of their 12-game season practically rushed the Maroons off the floor last night at Champaign. The Maroons also set a record of their own, 39 straight defeats in conference play.

Titans To Battle Dukes Wednesday

Blue And White Seeks Revenge For Recent Two-Point Cage Setback

(Special To The News)
NEW WILMINGTON, March 2.—Westminster college's Titans seek revenge Wednesday night when they hop over to Pittsburgh for a return engagement with Duquesne's Dukes.

In the first battle between the rivals, the Titans were well on their way to victory when a blackout halted proceedings with seven minutes left. The rest apparently did the trick as the Daviesmen overcame a seven point deficit to sneak in with a two-point margin.

Westminster, minus its big star, Goldblum, now serving in the armed forces, had several other excellent replacements also in U. S. Uncle Sam's team, are underdogs.

Michigan, Illini Major Threats In Big 10 Meet

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, March 2.—Michigan and Illinois loomed today as the chief threats to Ohio State's supremacy in the 33rd Western Conference indoor track meet to be held Friday and Saturday nights in the University of Chicago field house.

Despite the absence of two men who accounted for 14 points last year, Ohio State is regarded as a top favorite to retain the Big Ten title.

FAIR OR FOUL By LAWTON CARVER INS Sports Editor

NEW YORK, March 2.—Short and sweet: Beau Jack, New York commission world lightweight champion, didn't feel that he was really a big timer until he defeated Fritz Zievic, former welter champion. To Beau Jack that was the most important victory he ever scored. If he can repeat that Zievic victory in their 12-round Friday night fight, he will know all this is here to stay.

Farr Entertainer
Freddie Corcoran, former Professional Golf Association manager, has lined up Tommy Farr to help entertain troops in England for the Red Cross, while Corcoran is serving for the duration. Announcement that Philadelphia Athletics and Phillies will be able to play their scheduled 14 night baseball games is the first big break to fall in the general direction of William D. Cox, new owner of the Phils.

Night games this season will draw bigger crowds than ever before. But there won't be any for the New York Yankees and Giants and the Brooklyn Dodgers because of the necessity of preventing skyglow in this vicinity.

New York university is rated a cinch now to win the national I. C. 4-A track and field championships at Madison Square Gardens Saturday night, with Frank Dixon, the young Negro miler, expected to set the pace for the victors.

That may be his last meet, incidentally. The 20-year-old freshman expects his service call in the very near future.

Short Quits Track
Pvt. Hugh Short, former Georgetown student, was missing from last Saturday night's national A. U. track championships by his own choice. His athletic officer at Camp Lee and Dan Ferris, secretary of the A. U., both were eager for the quarter and half-mile speedster to participate, but in declining, he said: "I've hung up my running my equipment for the duration. I don't feel I could do justice to the army or to my running by dividing my attention. I want to do a good job in the army."

If the Detroit Tigers can get off as well in the American league as they have in signing up players, the American league pennant will be a cinch for them. The Tigers have 25 signatures and are all set to start spring conditioning at Evansville, Ind., in 15 days. The University of Chicago, which finally dropped football, is trying with the same notion concerning basketball. The cagers from there dropped their 38th straight game Saturday night to Michigan.

Cage Tourney Nears
New York's greatest basketball season will come to a smashing climax beginning March 22, when the national invitation tournament will start a program of seven nights of competition in 11 days. Sellout crowds already are assured as they are for virtually all sports events here.

Whether Ocean Wave, stabilizer of Whirlaway, is to be a contender for the Kentucky Derby, will be determined to some extent next Saturday at New Orleans when he goes in the Louisiana Derby.

Saints Pancake Third U. P. For Ninth In Row; Epworths, C. Christians Win

One triumph separates the St. Vitus team from the 1942-43 New Castle Church Basketball crown.

Epworths Walk In
The Epworths advanced to second place and a game away from St. Vitus by crushing Tifereth Israel, 89-38. Dart and Wimer were the principal hatchet men with 27 and 24 points. O'Brien pumped in 18 markers. Herky and Solomon featured for the losers.

The victorious St. George quint dropped its ninth straight, absorbing a 34-27 setback administered by Central Christians. Hopper was the whole show for the Christians, garnering 20 points. P. Hrisoulas starred for the Greek athletes.

Babe, who was placed on the trading block by Manager Leo Durocher of the Dodgers yesterday, has attracted the attention of President Horace Stoneham of the Giants and the latter is expected to make an offer for him.

"Sure I'm interested in Dahlgren and any other good ballplayers," said Stoneham. "If he is available I might make an offer for him. Who else is there around?"

Stoneham has his fingers crossed pending a report from regular first sacker, Johnny Mize's draft board. The big guy recently underwent his preliminary physical and may be re-classified 1A in the near future.

Outfielder Bob Johnson Not Likely To Be On Roster, Mack Says

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, March 2.—Connie Mack, veteran manager of the Athletics today revealed that his entire team, with the exception of pitchers Lum Harris and Bob Savage, and Outfielder Bob Johnson, have returned signed contracts.

No word at all has been received from Harris, Connie said, and Savage, who is studying at Staunton Military Academy, is reportedly headed for the army, Johnson, who returned his agreement unsigned, is not likely to be on the club roster, Mack asserted.

"It's the first time in years that I've had my team signed so early," the 80-year-old manager pointed out. "And I've had less trouble this winter than ever before—maybe it's because of the war and its uncertainties."

Move Would Benefit Transportation, Claim

Believes Majors Should Arrange For Longer Visits In Each City

DIAMOND MOGULS MAKE NO STATEMENT

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, March 2.—Sen. James M. Mead (D-N.Y.), today favored calling off of the World Series and the annual "All Star" baseball game for the duration to help relieve the strain on transportation.

An officer of the Buffalo, N. Y., baseball club, Mead said he has conferred informally with club officials on measures to keep competitive sports alive with the least possible drain on manpower and the minimum tax on transportation facilities, but nothing has been done officially.

He said that he also had informal discussions with a presidential secretary on the matter but planned no further visits to the White House on the subject.

Should Rearrange Card

"Various people have written me given them for what they may be and asked my view and I have given them for what they may be worth," Mead said. "My opinion is that the major leagues should rearrange their schedules so as to permit teams to remain for longer periods in each city."

"I also believe that some of the smaller league should be reorganized on an industrial city basis under an arrangement whereby war plant workers would be included in the teams."

CADET CAGERS

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. — The three senior stars of Indiana's basketball team—Capt. Irvin Swanson of LaPorte, Ed Denton of Jeffersonville and John Logan of Richmond—are cadet officers in the advanced corps of the Indiana University R. O. T. C. unit.

HARRIS WILL FIND WINS ELUSIVE TOO

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, March 2. Bucky Harris, new manager of the Phils, was convinced today that ball players are going to be hard to find this season.

Harris recently issued an invitation to all ball players, assorted and sundry, to drop into the Phils' office and discuss the possibilities of playing with the team.

Three applications were received. One was from a one-eyed outfielder from Hartford, Conn., and the others were from a sandlotter and a former minor leaguer, neither of whom had the proper qualifications.

West Side Athlete Seeks To Even Score With Pittsburgher Tonight

In a four-round preliminary to the Ossie (Bulldog) Harris-Johnny Lawler fight carded in Pittsburgh tonight, Russ Leasure, New Castle, meets Ted Phillips of Pittsburgh.

The popular west sider, who departed from the amateur ranks after winning the district championship, made his debut recently by losing an unpopular decision to Phillips.

There are said to be 640,000 kinds of insects, but only 10,000 are destructive to man and his possessions.

SPORTS WORLD RAMBLINGS

Sports merry-go-round:—

Yesterday being March 1, the mail was chunky, which isn't unusual on the first of every month. Scrambled among the elegant envelopes, a streamer with a window in the center were several letters written by figures familiar to the local sports lodge.

Two New Nurses Aides Classes Begin Training

Local Women Begin Training For Urgent Wartime Work In Hospitals Monday

With the call for nurses aides being sounded with more emphasis than ever, New Castle chapter of American Red Cross is delighted to report much enthusiasm is being shown among married women and single girls, who desire to contribute their time and effort to a most needed and worthy cause—that of being nurses aides in the local hospitals.

On Monday, March 1, two additional classes were started. Fourteen were enrolled at Jameson Memorial hospital and 21 compose the class at the New Castle hospital. The former group is being instructed by Mrs. Louise Isaacs and the latter will be instructed by Sister M. Lucian.

Mrs. Harry Barkby, Lawrence county chairman of nurses aides, states the need for nurses aides is magnified as time goes on, inasmuch as registered nurses are being taken in large groups from each hospital monthly for war service. She with several of the committee were present at the meeting held Monday at the Jameson hospital in the afternoon from 3 to 5 and at the New Castle hospital in the evening from 7 to 9.

Mrs. Barkby also asks that others interested in taking up this work to call personally at the American Red Cross chapter house on North Beaver street for enrollment. They will be notified of the time of their interview in preparation for beginning with the next class in eight weeks.

Acting executive of the local Red Cross, Miss Marguerite Potts, also spoke to the two classes regarding their new undertaking.

Mrs. Helen Replegle of 130 East Lincoln avenue has completed 153½ hours following 80 hours training period, and has been given her first service stripe.

Vegetable Grower Speaker Tonight At Senior High School

This evening at 8 o'clock in the auditorium of New Castle Senior High school, W. B. Nissley, state extension specialist on vegetable growing from Penn State college, will be the speaker on a program that is sponsored by the Lawrence County Garden committee.

Many home gardeners who have been growing vegetables for years are planning to attend to hear about new developments in vegetable-growing. The Men's Garden club is planning to attend in a body.

Mr. Nissley's talk will also include advice helpful to gardeners whose vegetable-growing experience is limited, but who are planning to work a Victory vegetable garden this year. A large attendance of home gardeners is looked for.

The meeting is open to the public and there is no admission charge.

DESTROYER SAILOR CAN SLEEP MOST ANYWHERE

(International News Service)

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia.—A sailor snoring peacefully on a luggage rack in a crowded railroad train day coach between Ames, Ia., and Cedar Rapids brought comment by a Cedar Rapids woman that she was amazed that the sleeper could be so comfortable.

Replied another sailor:

"Lady, if you'd ever served on a destroyer, you'd know that a nice place like that rack is heaven!"

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEKALL

If for no other reason than you personally enjoy eating . . . either to keep alive or to keep plump . . . it is for your good that you attend the meeting in the Senior high school this evening at 8 o'clock.
W. B. Nissley from Penn State will be with us to explain the proper planting and care of victory vegetable gardens. This chap has spent the past 25 years working with vegetables . . . and he can probably tell a lot of us a great many ideas that will make our job this summer a little easier and a whole lot more successful.
That's tonight at 8 o'clock in the Senior high school . . . The Men's Garden club will attend in a body . . . why don't you and your neighbors come down . . . you won't be kept late. This meeting is for the furtherment of the war effort.

The Lions club of New Castle have done more in the past few years to help the blind than any other group for miles around —this year they found that a little cash was needed . . . instead of going out and working their hands to the bone selling tickets for this and that . . . and spending a lot of the cash that they would take in on items other than for the blind . . . they have conceived of the idea of selling stamps . . . Each and every dime that you send to the Lions club for their Blind Fund will be spent for that and only that . . . The expense of getting the stamps and mailing them to their fellow citizens has been underwritten by individual members of the local Lions club . . . So if you can see your way clear . . . your support will be greatly appreciated.
Charles Lumley in the Penn Theater building will be a fine place to take your donations.

Some people don't need ration books . . . they eat out all of the time and what's the use? That was alright until the shoe business came into the picture. You should ask the Honorable Mayor of New Castle how it feels to have but one pair of shoes and no ration book to get another pair. Well, Charlie Mayne had quite a time the last few days . . . he went and asked for shoe coupons at the ration board . . . after doing this and that according to the rules and regulations Mayor Mayne finally was permitted to buy a pair of shoes. Tuesday noon and all is well.

The classified ads will give you cash for unneeded items.

ELLWOOD CITY, March 2.—The local Red Cross War Fund Campaign reached the $13,942.50 mark today when the Mathews Conveyor Company turned in $1,387.27 in addition to the $476.30 turned in a week ago. This makes the total contribution from this company of $1,863.57.

The Mathews Conveyor Company and employees were highly praised by local Red Cross officials. More partial payments were turned in by the National Tube Company and when the complete report by that company is turned in a statement will be issued concerning the total contributions made by the company and employees.

The Ellwood Safety Appliance Company employees contributed $20.00 and the company $15.00 which gave that company a $35.00 total contribution and a $5.00 per man average.

The Ladder turned in a partial report on their employees. The Borough employees, Library employees turned in a very generous contribution and through their head, Mrs. Charles, offered their manpower help.

Various church classes and organizations in the community along with more contributions from the business section are helping to swell the fund so that the goal of $20,000 may be reached by the early part of next week.

Industries and workers covering the Red Cross campaign here are urged to clean up their work so that Ellwood City might be the first city in Western Pennsylvania to announce that it has reached its quota or better still gone "over the top."

NO. 50 ITEMS NOT DEDUCTIBLE

Personal, living, or family expenses and capital expenditures are not deductible items in the computation of the statutory net income, whereas all the ordinary and necessary expenses of carrying on any trade or business are deductible.

In the event a taxpayer is engaged in an occupation which requires the use of equipment as in the cases of Army officers, ball players, firemen, aviators, nurses, and surgeons, the cost of such is deductible only to the extent (1) that it is specifically required and (2) that it does not take the place of ordinary to the place of a new position commutes fares, the cost of post-graduate courses, bar examination fees, expenditures for the maintenance and operation of an automobile used for personal convenience and not by reason of necessity in connection with a business, penalty payments with respect to Federal taxes—whether on account of negligence, delinquency, or fraud—amounts paid by a parent to unemancipated minor children for services rendered by such minor children, and amounts deducted and withheld from the wages or salary of employees as Federal old-age benefit tax.
